

MATE FOLLOWS WIFE IN DEATH AN HOUR LATER

Mrs. Chindblom Dies in Husband's Arms

Carl R. Chindblom, 85, congressman from the old 10th district from 1919 to 1933, and his wife, Christine, 74, died an hour apart yesterday in their home at 5735 N. Campbell av.

A family friend said Mrs. Chindblom had died in the arms of her husband, and that he died as he sat in a living room chair while a physician was telephoning their daughter. Chindblom had a heart condition.

Husband Calls Doctor

Mrs. Chindblom had complained of difficulty in breathing yesterday morning. She had not been ill previously. Her husband summoned a physician, but Mrs. Chindblom had died by the time he arrived.

Carl Chindblom and his wife, Christine.

The Chindbloms were married 49 years.

Chindblom, a retired lawyer, was a native Chicagoan and was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1900. He was attorney for the state board of health in 1906 and was county commissioner from 1907 to 1910. He was county attorney from 1912 to 1914 and a master in chancery of Circuit court from 1916 to 1919 before being elected to Congress.
